The firm, and the individuals with responsibility for various aspects of the System of Quality Management, ensure that the overriding requirements for quality in everything that the firm does is reinforced by clear, consistent and frequent messages and supported by the firm's actions.

Responsibilities for Quality within the Firm

The organizational structure of the firm determines the different levels of responsibility of the management and is the basis of the SoQM:

The firm's appointed Partners are committed to maintaining high standards of quality within the firm and are responsible for the following:

- Leading and promoting a quality assurance culture within the firm;
- Providing and maintaining the firm's policies and procedures related to the SoQM and all other practical aids and guidance to support engagement quality;
- The firm's operating and reporting structure;
- Consulting with partners and other professionals seeking technical advice;

The Network maintains a worldwide database named “MOORE Independence” that identifies potential client conflicts of interest across all services offerings of member firms, including listed companies and other public interest entities. The database is populated by member firms by way of reports held in the MGNL intranet.

Prior to accepting any new clients or assurance engagement, member firms perform specific checks to identify potential conflicts of interest and threats to auditor independence. International conflicts of interest and independence checks throughout the MOORE Global network are made through the web-based tool MOORE Independence.

Compliance with the firm’s independence procedures is covered with the annual review of the firm’s compliance with applicable regulatory requirements.

For new client relationships, a comprehensive client acceptance process is conducted that covers KYC, anti-money laundering, ethical issues and other professional risk assessment measures.
